Tickets Now On Sale for Hybrid Bell Fort Worth Alliance Air Show Oct. 23-24

FORT WORTH, TEXAS (Aug. 23, 2021) – The renowned U.S. Navy Blue Angels will soar through the North Texas skies at the 31st Anniversary of the Bell Fort Worth Alliance Air Show Oct. 23-24 at Fort Worth Alliance Airport. The air show is taking on a hybrid model this year. Ticket options for parking, an exclusive area for photographers and seating with a buffet lunch are available for purchase now at AllianceAirShow.com. There will be no tickets sold on-site. Parking lots are currently scheduled to open at 10 a.m., and performances begin around 11:30 a.m., times and performers are subject to change.

“To minimize impacts to surrounding airfield businesses and customers, the air show will adopt a format that shifts guests from the ramp to the parking area. Guests will park on the east side of Fort Worth Alliance Airport – with one space for the vehicle and the adjoining space to picnic and play. There are additional options for photographers and seating with a buffet lunch. We’ve added the Landing Zone, a 1.5-acre area full of exciting ground attractions, activities and exhibits for all ages,” said Christina Carey, director of special projects for Alliance Air Productions, producer of the event and a nonprofit organization created by Hillwood.

In addition to the U.S. Navy Blue Angels debuting their F/A-18 Super Hornets, this first-class air show, named first among “Best Air Shows” in the 2020 USA TODAY 10Best Readers’ Choice Awards, includes the Air National Guard Band of the Southwest, All Veteran Parachute Team, Bell 505, Bill Stein, David Martin, F-16 Viper Demo, Matt Younkin, U.S. Air Force A-10 Thunderbolt.

If local, state, federal, military, or FAA entities determine that Alliance Air Productions can’t host a 2021 air show due to matters that are COVID-19 related, advance ticket purchases will be refunded.

Since 2006, the Bell Fort Worth Alliance Air Show has distributed more than $780,000 of its proceeds to more than 80 nonprofit organizations across North Texas. This year’s proceeds will also be distributed to various local nonprofit organizations.
